BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Starck first achieved international attention by refurbishing French President François Mitterrand's, private apartment in the Elysee Palace, in 1982. He has designed products for well-known companies such as Alessi, Kartell, Microsoft and Puma. Starck designed the interiors for night clubs (La Main Bleue 1976), hotels (Royalton 1988 and Paramount hotels 1990, in New York) and restaurants (Café Costes 1984).

DESCRIPTION OF ONE PRODUCT

Philippe Starck's 'Juicy Salif' - Citrus Squeezer (1990) is a design classic and an iconic product. It is said that the original design was sketched on a napkin whilst Philippe was on holiday in Italy.

A piece of sculpture more than a functional object, as it does not have a base to collect the juice. This fact has not damaged its popularity and it is one of Starck's most recognisable designs. The Juicy Salif deserves to be the centre piece on the table, rather than storing it in a cupboard, waiting to be used.
