The childrens rattle / maracas hve been designed for young children.

A child can shake the maracas to produce sound and to play along with music.

What do you think of the way the handheld toy looks. You may wish to consider whether AESTHETICS: it is eye catching, if it is suitable for young children and the colour scheme.

STRENGTH: Does the handheld product look strong enough, keeping in mind that it will be handled roughly by young children? Is it likely to last many years / decades? Explain your answer.

EDUCATIONAL / LEARNING?: What do think a young child may learn from the handheld product?

THEME: The lollipop drum shape and form, is based on a real lollipop for young children. Do you think the design has been successful, in terms of the theme only?
