HOW SUPERMARKETS ENCOURAGE CUSTOMERS TO REDUCE WASTE AND TO HELP PROTECT THE ENVIRONMENT

V.Ryan © 2000 - 2011

On behalf of The World Association of Technology Teachers

W.A.T.T.

World Association of Technology Teachers

This exercise can be printed and used by teachers and students. It is recommended that you view the website (www.technologystudent.com) before attempting the design sheet.
Most people buy the majority of their food and other products from supermarkets. In many countries, supermarkets dominate the retail and supply of everyday products. Supermarket managers are increasingly aware of the interest of their customers in environmental issues. Consequently they tend to promote products and packaging that reduces waste and helps protect the environment. This makes good economic sense as supermarkets that do not help protect the environment, could find that environmentally conscience customers spend their money elsewhere.

Describe three ways supermarkets try to encourage customers to reduce waste, especially the waste of materials.

1. __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________

2. __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________

3. __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________
   __________________________________________